You are buying "Exempt Market Securities"

They are called exempt market securities because the issuer relies on exemptions from the prospectus exemption under available securities laws. As such, the issuer is not required to provide you with a prospectus-level disclosure document, is not subject to certain continuous disclosure requirements under applicable securities laws, and certain statutory remedies will be unavailable to you.

There are restrictions on your ability to resell exempt market securities. Exempt market securities are more risky than other securities.

You will receive an offering memorandum

Read the offering memorandum carefully because it has important information about the issuer and its securities. Keep the offering memorandum because you have rights based on it. Talk to a lawyer for details about these rights.

The securities you are buying are not listed or registered

The securities you are buying are not listed on any stock exchange and they may never be listed. You may never be able to sell these securities. The securities you are buying have not been registered under the United States Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or the securities laws of any state of the United States and may not be offered or sold in the United States unless registered under the Securities Act of 1933 and the securities laws of all applicable states of the United States, or an exemption from such registration requirements is available.

The issuer of your securities is a Non-Reporting Issuer

A non-reporting issuer is not subject to certain continuous disclosure obligations under applicable securities laws, and as such does not have to publish financial information or notify the public of changes in its business. You may not receive ongoing information about this issuer. No prospectus has been filed by the Company with any of securities commissions in connection with the issuance of the securities you are buying.

For more information on the exempt market, contact the British Columbia Securities Commission at (604) 899-6500, (outside the local area, call toll-free 1-800 373-6393), or visit its website at www.bcsc.bc.ca.
